

UNITED NATIONS. There is one superpower in the world. That's good. But it is not good that this superpower is the USA. The one superpower in the world should be the United Nations, whose stated aim is to prevent war and safeguard human rights. And the institutions of the UN should be greatly strengthened; they must be able to call to account any country, on any issue. Just like Martin Luther King I have a dream - of a world without violence, corruption, oppression, profiteering, inequality, poverty. This is possible with responsibility for all humans entrusted to one authority, or World Government - a strengthened United Nations.

All over the world warring nations struggle to find solutions to their problems. We may have to concede that these disputes can't be solved by the countries themselves. World Peace can only come from one source - a powerful United Nations.

The former Australian Prime Minister, Gough Whitlam said: "Australia must strive above all for the Parliament of Man, the Federation of the World. The ultimate security of our nation and the ultimate survival of civilization alike demand it."*

in his 1963 Roy Milne Memorial Lecture on Australian foreign policy*